TIMELESS

Latvian Voices' acoustic concert program Timeless is intended for performance without sound equipment in good-sounding concert halls and churches.

The program is based on three main inspiration sources of Latvian Voices; Latvian folk songs, academic music and internationally renowned melodies.

Latvian folk song is one of the most important components of the intangible cultural heritage of Latvia and is at the heart of Latvian Voices' identity, inspiring all members of the group, especially Laura Jekabsons, to create both arrangements of existing melodies and to compose original melodies with folklore texts.

One of the biggest challenges in a cappella music is transcribing instrumental music for voices, and Latvian Voices is also keen to include in their programmes compositions that were originally written for instruments, such as "Valse Melancolique" by Emīls Dārziņš or "Keidas" by the Finnish folk group Frigg.

Voice is the most versatile musical instrument, therefore the group performs a cappella settings of popular melodies from around the world, to the delight of both themselves and the audience.
